

Try your hand at glamping in these exotic locations

August 17, 2012

Modern day camping has evolved to become something of glamorous affair, with muddy fields replaced by stunning vistas and pop-up tents traded for colonial-tents equipped with luxury touches such as comfy double beds and en-suite bathrooms (not sure what glamping is? We have a guide!).

If you are keen to indulge in the ultimate glamping getaway then peruse some of the latest deals from Enchanting Travels. The company provides private, tailor-made trips to India, South America, Africa and Asia.

Chhatra Sagar, India: From £1,985 per person for an 11-day, 10-night introduction to Rajasthan trip.

Located above a reservoir that looks out to distant mountains and fields, visitors will stay in one of the 13 hand-stitched tents which come complete with locally crafted furniture.

Block printing in traditional floral motifs adorn the interior walls of the tents, and travellers can completely unwind in the luxury camp's setting in a lush green oasis.

Oliver's Camp, Tanzania: From £4,040 per person for a-10 day, 9-night safari trip in northern Tanzania.

Fans of the 1985 film Out of Africa will enjoy the idea of taking in the splendour of Africa with the safari interiors of Olakira Camp.

Visitors can choose to kick back and relax with a cup of tea or coffee on their own private veranda and take in the stunning views of the African savannah or feast their eyes on the wildlife of Tarangire.

The newly refurbished tent is covered by traditional thatch and is beautifully furnished.

Osian Camel Camp, India: From £1,775 per person for an 11-day, 10-night trip with activities in Osian.

This Rajasthan desert experience is sure to stay etched in the memories of any visitors for years to come.

Travellers will stay in carpeted tents decorated with vibrant local handicrafts and can escape the heat with a dip in the camp's swimming pool.

(Images : Enchanting Travels)

africa, camping, India, tourism, travel